

"Life is full of light and shadow, O the joy and O the sorrow." (Crowder, 2009)

The Via Dolorosa, or in Latin "The Sorrowful Way," is a physical walk in Jerusalem which remembers Jesus' journey to the Cross. Over the centuries, countless Christians have symbolically walked the Sorrowful Way in Lent by doing the Stations the Cross, which marks important moments from Jesus' last earthly journey.

Join Sister D. Bracher, artist in residence, for a hands-on exploration of The Sorrowful Way through scripture, poetry, music, and by creating your own version of the Stations. Each Sunday right after coffee hour we will build on our work from the week before finishing up the stations by Palm Sunday.
